The Roads to Integrating Sustainability in School Leadership & Teacher Preparation Programs

Editors:

Dr. Rosemary Papa

Dr. Anna Saiti

Faye Snodgrass

Dr. Panagiotis Kaldis

Overview:

The text will offer promising 'roads' to those that prepare principals and teachers on the impact that the education process has in developing individuals for sustainable communities.

This call is international in scope using as a baseline leader and teacher standards found in the U.S. and countries that imported a standards approach; UNESCO resources for educators who prepare the principals and teachers; the European Union approach to sustainable goals across 27 countries; and all relevant tools professors can and should be using in their preparation programs. We believe this can only happen by creating new learning processes within preparation programs so that education systems can be better equipped to shape the citizens of tomorrow.
